

Our Digital Court File case study published on Observatory of Public Sector Innovation webpage

We are very happy and proud that our Digital Court File case study has been published on Observatory of Public Sector Innovation (OPSI) webpage as part of OPSI's annual Call for Innovations.

OPSI is a global forum for public sector innovation operating under the OECD. OPSI works with governments to understand and encourage new approaches to address society's complex problems by empowering public servants with new insights, knowledge, tools and connections to help them explore new possibilities.
